FAYETTE COUNTY AROUSED.

Republicans Actively at Work.

A Patriarch on the Stand for Grant and the Ticket—Speeches by Hon. T. J. Bigham and John F. Dravo, Esq.—Fayette will Give a Good Account of Herself.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

UNIONTOWN, September 9, 1868.

The citizens of this ancient borough and county are becoming stirred up on politics. On last Monday evening the Democracy assembled in pursuance of a call headed, "A White Man's Government," to hear Henry D. Foster, their candidate for Congress against old John Covode. I rather infer from the tone of remarks on the street that he gave very little satisfaction to his own political friends. It is very well known that he scouts the repudiation theory of the Pendleton school. His speech, however, was a tame affair, and satisfied many of his own friends that he is much more at home before a jury than he is before an out and out Copperhead audience, to which type the Fayette Democracy belong. Our friends are confident of being able to keep his majority under six hundred in this county. If so, Covode will be elected by five hundred at least in the district. Grant cannot be beaten five hundred in this county.

Last night the Republicans assembled in the Court House with banners and music. The venerable Judge Ewing, aged seventy-four years, narrated the leading facts within his knowledge, tending to show that the Copperhead Democracy of the North could not be trusted on either the questions of the tariff or freedom. Standing with one foot in the grave, and addressing his fellow citizens for the last time, he was listened to attentively. Many of his facts were new, and the whole of them so arranged as to produce a deep impression upon the crowded Court House. He spoke for fully an hour, and I was sorry that some of the reporters of the Pittsburgh press were not present to report him. Our weekly paper, of course, cannot.

POLITICAL.

SPEAKER COLFAX'S DISTRICT.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

VALPARAISO, IND., September 9, 1868.

Gen. Packard and Judge Farrand, candidates for Congress in this (Eleventh) District, held their third joint debate in the Court House here to-day. The attendance was not so large as expected, owing to the threatening weather. Hon. Freeman Church presided. Gen. Packard opened in an hour's speech, followed by Farrand in an hour and a half—Packard closing in half an hour. It is the general expression that Packard showed himself much the strongest man of the two, and he left no ground for his antagonist to stand on. A leading Democrat named Brown has signified his intention to vote the Republican ticket since hearing the discussion to-day. Republicans claim that the district will increase on Colfax's usual majorities this year. Porter county will gain seventy-five to a hundred votes.

MARYLAND.

BALTIMORE, September 9.—Governor Swann was unanimously nominated to-day as the Democratic candidate for the Third District. Hon. Frederick Stone was renominated as the Democratic candidate from the Fifth District.

BALTIMORE, September 9.—Hon. Stevenson Archer was nominated for Congress by the Democratic Convention of the Second District.

OHIO.

SANDUSKY, O., September 9.—The Democratic Convention at Clyde to-day nominated E. F. Dickinson, of Fremont, as a candidate for Congress from the Ninth Ohio District.

MASSACHUSETTS.

WORCESTER, MASS., September 9.—The Republican State Convention to-day was a very large gathering, and participated in by most of the well known party leaders in the State. Hon. Wm. Claflin was nominated by acclamation for Governor. The ticket is the same as last year, with the exception of Joseph [illegible] Clifford, of New Bedford. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Republicans of Massachusetts heartily approve the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention at Chicago, and pledge their earnest support to the election of Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax as essential to the peace, safety and honor of the country.

Resolved, That the rights of the loyal citizens of the South, won by the war and secured by national legislation, shall be maintained.

Resolved, [illegible]

Resolved, [illegible]

Resolved, That the success of the Democratic party tends directly to revolution and civil war.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 9.—The Republican Convention elected [illegible] permanent Chairman. A committee was appointed to prepare an address to the people of the State. A. S. Wallace, of York, was nominated as the Republican candidate for Congress from the Fourth District.

CONNECTICUT.

NEW HAVEN, September 9.—At the Democratic State Convention, held to-day, the following Presidential electors were nominated: At large—Governor James English and General William B. Franklin; first Congressional district, Alfred E. Goodrich; second district, Henry G. Hubbard; third district, Lloyd E. Baldwin; fourth district, Nathaniel Wheeler.

Resolved, That the success of the Republican party is essential to the public credit, as this party alone can be relied upon to make the actual and honest payment of the public debt in gold and silver a matter of sacred honor, while the Democratic proposition is an evasion of our duty and a fraud upon those who have trusted the nation.

NEW MEXICO.

ST. LOUIS, September 9.—A Santa Fe dispatch of yesterday says the legislative election in New Mexico yesterday resulted in a Republican victory. The Legislature will be two-thirds Republican. Santa Fe county gave 100 Republican majority.

COLORADO.

ST. LOUIS, September 9.—A Denver dispatch says the election in Colorado yesterday resulted in the election of Allen A. Bradford, Republican, as delegate to Congress, by an increased majority. The Legislature will undoubtedly be largely Republican.

MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, September 9.—The Democrats of the Second District nominated Capt. Eugene Wilson, of Minneapolis, for Congress to-day.

THE REPUBLICAN RALLY AT BEAVER.

Speeches of Senator Taylor and H. Bucher Swope, Esq.—An Increased Majority Promised.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

BEAVER, PENNA., September 9, 1868.

This being the week of the regular County Court, the rank and file—the farmer, mechanic and laborer—from all parts of the country, were in attendance at court. A meeting was extemporized for Tuesday night at the Court House. Colonel Taylor, Senator from this district, and H. Bucher Swope, Esq., of Clearfield county, were announced as speakers. Long before the meeting, every nook and corner of the spacious Court House was filled, every aisle and passage way, every door and window being packed with anxious listeners, who could not get seats.

Old Taylor being in delicate health, suffering from the effects of exposure in the field and in Southern prisons, made a short but very impressive speech. He knew the man who was to follow him, and was anxious to give everybody an opportunity to hear the distinguished orator.

Mr. Swope is no ordinary speaker. For about an hour and a half he held the vast assemblage spell bound by bursts of genuine eloquence, solid arguments and withering sarcasm, such as I have never heard excelled, if equalled, in that court room, where I have heard the Forwards, the Curtins, the Marshalls, the Kirkpatricks, and many others of the famous stump speakers who have spoken there for the last twenty years. He is a resident of the same county as Senator Wallace, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and it was he who instigated that fraudulent voting in his own and Center counties, before a Committee of the Senate at Harrisburg last winter, when they traced the forged naturalization papers to the number of seventeen hundred to Luzerne county.

Some of these papers were used in the counties of Clearfield and Center, last fall, and of course will be used in some other locality in the State at the approaching election.

We are all awake. Our meetings, day or night, are all well attended. We are united and watchful, and although we expect a few thousand coffee-stained naturalization papers to be used by the Democracy, we will roll up such majorities as will leave no chance for small frauds to affect the result.

SEMI-OCCASIONAL.

The Southern Rebels—How They Went Out and How They Will Come Back.

[From the Mobile Register, August 29.]

We are asked to get on our knees and confess a lie which we do not believe, to dishonour ourselves as self-convicted traitors and beg pardon for committing treason, while in our innermost hearts we only fought for the principles of free government embodied in our common Constitution. In short, that we are not fit for political companionship and relations of fraternal equality with our Northern countrymen until we have disgraced ourselves as no true American can ever consent to do. Let it be understood that the South went out of the Union at least like men, like men took arms to defend its right—that during the whole struggle, by land and sea, they did nothing to forfeit their character of manhood or cause their Northern brethren to blush that they were Americans. If we ever get back to the Union, we propose to go back with heads erect like men, and not crawl back on our bellies like spaniels. We propose to enter the Union through its front portals, thrown wide open by a magnanimous people, lately foemen in the field, now brothers since the tomahawk was buried. We did not disgrace the American name while we were out, and we will not disgrace it when we come in. And if we are to cheat and lie and demean ourselves, in order to make ourselves worthy of and acceptable to the so-called "Conservative people" we shall have to live forever without their approbation. The South never "rebelled" against the Constitution of the United States, for it took it out with it and set it up on its own altar; it never "rebelled" against the Union, but against a sectional party that did not respect the Union; nor did it "rebel" against the North, for a peer cannot rebel against a peer. The South believed its rights of freedom and property were not safe under an abolition Radical administration, and if any doubted it then, the bigotry, tyranny and cruelty of that party since the year has gone far to remove those doubts. And we are of those who to-day believe that the blood poured out in this war as a protest against the "unconstitutionalism" of the Republican party was a necessary libation to the genius of free American institutions, and will yet, under Heaven, prove the salvation of the American Constitution.

GOV. THOMAS E. BRAMLETTE, of Kentucky, may be considered pretty good Democratic authority. At a meeting at Center Valley, Indiana, on the 27th ultimo, Bramlette talked thus of Johnson and Grant. Speaking of the events following the surrender at Appomattox, he said:

"General Grant gave them (the rebels) his parole of honor that they should not be hurt. When Lee was afterward indicted, Mr. Johnson was still very bitter. I well remember his coming into Camp Dick Robinson, after having been driven out of Tennessee, and how very bitter he was against the men of that State. Grant remonstrated against General Lee's punishment, and at length compelled the District Attorney to quash the indictment. Since that time Mr. Johnson has quieted down. Then he was drunk all the time, and when drunk he was very fierce all the time. Old Frank Blair took him out to White Sulphur Springs, got his head cooled off, got him sobered down, and he has been fighting the Radicals ever since."

The National Telegraphic Union commenced its sixth annual convention at Albany yesterday. The convention will probably be in session two or three days.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH.

Walter Brown the Winner.

Alleged Best Time Ever Made—Did the Contestants Row Five Miles?—Hamill's Challenge to the Winner.

The city was in a great state of excitement yesterday in reference to the race for the sculling championship of America, between Henry Coulter, of Allegheny City, and Walter Brown, of Portland, Maine, which came off on the Monongahela river, between Dams No. 1 and 2. The trains yesterday brought to the city a large number of sporting men from the East, who came here to witness the race and invest their money. From early in the morning, crowds could be seen gathered about the hotels and street corners, discussing the race and the merits of the contestants. By noon, the streets leading to the river commenced to be thronged with people.

THE REFEREE AND JUDGES.

The representatives of Coulter and Brown met at the Monongahela House in the morning, and after considerable talk succeeded in choosing a referee in the person of Mr. Thomas Rees, Jr., of Monongahela borough. Coulter's Judges were announced as Irwin Redpath and David Speer, of Allegheny. The Judges for Brown were Captain John Travis and S. D. Stevens.

GOING TO THE RACE.

By two o'clock the streets were filled with people on their way to the wharf and railroad depot, to obtain passage to the head of the course, which was at Braddock's Fields. Some half dozen steamboats and ferryboats left the Monongahela wharf, all of which were laden to the water's edge with people anxious to witness the race. Some of the boats were so crowded that it was feared that some accident would befall the passengers before their return, but fortunately nothing of that nature occurred. Some of the boats had engaged music for the occasion, which helped to enliven the passage up the river. A special train of eleven cars, crowded with people, left the depot of the Connellsville Railroad, stopping at Braddock's Fields until after the race. The mail train in the afternoon was also crowded with passengers to witness the contest.

THE SPECTATORS.

In addition to the crowds brought up by the steamboats and cars, hundreds availed themselves of the opportunity of witnessing the entire race by attending in vehicles. At half-past five o'clock, there had assembled along the course one of the largest concourses of people that ever turned out to witness such a contest, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather during the afternoon, and it is estimated that ten thousand persons were present. The shores were lined with people and vehicles, while the river was dotted with crafts of every description, the boats carrying passengers to the race having all anchored near the head of the course.

THE BETTING.

There was probably less betting done at the race than at any championship race for several years. It was more even yesterday than it had been for two days before, and not much odds were offered on either party before the race. Some of the Eastern men, however, invested heavily on Brown, and offered large odds after the start, which were taken up by the Coulter men.

THE CONTESTANTS.

Brown arrived at the head of the course with his boat on the towboat Alex. Foster, which had been chartered for the purpose, and which was anchored near the starting point. About twenty minutes past five o'clock Brown emerged from the towboat in his shell and pulled over towards the starting point. He was dressed in white drawers, with a white handkerchief tied around his forehead. Coulter soon followed from his boat house in his shell, and was dressed in a pink shirt and drawers. Coulter won the choice of positions and chose the inside (or south side) course. Each contestant had a buoy to turn at the end of the course.

THE START AND RACE.

Considerable time was spent before the contestants got in readiness and at the starting point, and at thirteen minutes of six o'clock the word "go" was given by the referee. Both darted off in fine style, but Brown took the lead, which he kept during the entire race. Coulter was accompanied by his guide-boat, the "New York," containing the four-oared crew of the Xanthe Boat Club, consisting of Gordon Jackson, Patrick Speer, William Myers and Anderson Ross. Brown's guide-boat was the "Friendship," owned by the Dryden Boat Club, and was manned by John Tyler, Jr., J. W. Randall, Wm. Jackson and Fred Dierst. At the start the wildest excitement prevailed, and the air was filled by the yells of the people and the blowing of the whistles on the boats. Brown adopted the English style of rowing—the cross handed. He gradually distanced his competitor from the start, and when he reached the buoy, was several lengths in advance of Coulter. On the up course, he continued to increase the distance and reached the starting point over one hundred yards in advance of Coulter. The Referee decided that the race had been won by Brown, and he was accordingly awarded the stakes. Brown's time was announced as thirty-four minutes twenty-eight and a half seconds (34:28½), and that of Coulter thirty-five minutes and thirty-six seconds (35:36). The result was hailed with great delight by the friends of Brown.

THE RETURN.

After the race Coulter and Brown returned to their respective headquarters—the former to his boat-house near by, and the latter to the towboat on which he went to the course. The trains, passenger boats and vehicles then started for the city with their cargoes of human freight, and by eight o'clock all were back to the Smoky City. Brown and his friends, we believe, intend to return home to-day.

OPINIONS CONCERNING THE RACE.

The streets were crowded last night by persons discussing the result of the race, many alleging that the course rowed over was not full five miles, and that the extraordinary time made would justify their assertion. The fastest time on record in this country is that of Joshua Ward, when in his prime, which is 35:[illegible]. Many expert oarsmen hold to the belief that no such time was ever made in this country.

THE CHALLENGE OF JIMMY HAMILL.

The New York Clipper of this week contains the following challenge from Jimmy Hamill to the winner of the race yesterday:

PITTSBURGH, September 3, 1868.

FRANK QUEEN, ESQ.—Friend Queen: Please find enclosed two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) which I send you by Adams Express, as a forfeit to row the winner of the sculling championship between Mr. Coulter and Mr. Brown, over the same course that said race will take place on, in one or two weeks after that event, for one thousand dollars a side. I wish to row the winner without regard to the championship, to satisfy some friends and the public at large. I will, at some time, give my reasons to you for my present course. I remain, yours, respectfully,

JAMES HAMILL.

ARMSTRONG COUNTY AWAKE

A Grand Rally at Kittanning.

Republican Voters Out in Force.

Eloquent and Effective Speeches by Hon. Darwin Phelps, Hon. J. K. Moorhead, Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., and Hon. Geo. V. Lawrence.

The Issues of the Campaign Ably Discussed.

The Republican voters of Armstrong county held a mass meeting Tuesday afternoon and evening, which was largely attended and was the most enthusiastic held in Armstrong county during the present campaign.

Able addresses were made during the afternoon and evening by Hon. J. K. Moorhead, Hon. Darwin Phelps, Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., and Hon. George V. Lawrence.

The speakers were met at the depot and escorted to the Reynolds House, where they were entertained by the gentlemanly host, Mr. Reynolds, in a hospitable manner.

An admirably arranged speakers' stand was built on the corner of Jefferson and Market streets, near the Reynolds House, and long before the hour arrived for the meeting a large crowd had gathered in front of it.

THE ORGANIZATION.

The meeting was called to order at half-past one o'clock and the following officers elected:

THE QUESTION OF RECONSTRUCTION.

There is but one question before the American people, and that is simply the question of reconstruction. [illegible]

[illegible]

starry flag go up. [Three cheers for Grant were [illegible]] [illegible] those fellows along that line; first at Donelson and Shiloh, and at the forts along the river; from that down to Vicksburg, and the rebels were routed in the southwest. Some officers asked President Lincoln to remove him because, as they alleged, he was in the habit of getting drunk. The President said he did not know whether Grant got drunk, as he never saw him, but would like to know where his whisky was obtained, as it ought to be given to some other Generals in the army. [Laughter.] After he had whipped out the Confederacy south and west, President Lincoln called him to take command of the armies of the country. He goes to Washington. Who ever saw him on dress parade? [Voice—I did, once.] Yes, but after the war was over he had one dress parade. He did not spend his time in dress parades, but he organized his army and where McDowell had failed, where McClellan had failed, where Pope had failed, where Burnside had failed, and where glorious old Joe Hooker had failed, [Applause.] where they all had failed; the little man started there, and never did he issue a proclamation once. The other Generals issued their proclamations, but the little man set his eye upon Richmond, and started for Richmond, and kept going to Richmond; sometimes his progress was slow, sometimes it was bloody—all the time it was a hard road to that Rebel Jordan. But he kept going, and if one road was closed up he opened another, and fought it out upon that line all summer, taking the winter to it, too, because in revolutionary times there are no Sabbaths, no rests winter or summer. At last he set his eye upon Robert E. Lee, at Appomattox Court House, and then the last great battle of the war was fought. Now, you people up in Armstrong county, do you remember how you felt in April, 1865? Do you remember how you asked for the morning papers? You fathers, who had sons carrying muskets upon their shoulders; you mothers, who had sons that had enlisted to battle for the flag; how did you feel when you daily expected to hear that all you held dearer than life had gone down before the rebel musketry? The heart of the nation was all drawn to one point. It was centered then before Richmond. When the news came to Armstrong county, to Allegheny county, to Pennsylvania, and to the whole country, that,

Robert E. Lee,
Under a sour apple tree,

had surrendered to the little gray-eyed man of destiny, then bounded in you a new life, a rush of Patriotism; you felt you had a country, you had a nation, and the leaders of the Democratic party felt their party was dead and buried forever.

I have give you a resume of the war. Who did all this, who shot and wounded four hundred thousand of your boys; who planted them from Texas to Carolina, across the whole Southern Confederacy; who was it issued the advice to the Southern Confederacy to take no more captives, to raise the black flag, and shoot every man who was fighting in the loyal army? Who was it that did that? It was General Beauregard. Who was it that slaughtered the boys in blue that were sent from the valleys and mountains of Pennsylvania? Why it was Robert E. Lee, Napoleon B. Forrest, General Preston and the rebel leaders. And just here comes in the questions of reconstruction. This Democratic party says that these Southern brethren of ours have been a little while out of the nation—while they were arming themselves, killing our soldiers, and now Grant has brought them back prisoners of war; he has Lee by the throat; he has sent Sherman to "gobble" up Johnston and captured both of them. Now the question is, what are their rights under the Constitution? [Voice, hang them.] What does the Constitution say? Treason shall be punished by death. A foreigner comes here, he happened to be born in Ireland; cannot vote, and why? Because he never killed your sons; never stole your treasure, and never robbed the nation of the brightest jewels of the soul. (?) But these Southern brethren who were the children of the nation violated their oath of allegiance, murdered all those boys of yours, and now they come back and say a foreigner cannot vote, but the moment they are brought in prisoners of war, stamping their feet, they demand with oaths, give us all our rights under the Constitution. What does Congress say? Congress says O! What a world of beneficence; what a grand spectacle it is to see a nation like ours—thirty-six millions of freemen masters of the situation. The greatest rebellion of history conquered; all prisoners of war; all had forfeited their rights; all had forfeited their citizenship, and were at the mercy of their conquerors. What does the loyal party—the loyal Democracy say? Why, they say this and that is all there is in our platform. By the laws of war you have lost your rights. By the laws of God you have committed murder, and the murderer shall surely die. By the laws of your government you have committed treason, and the punishment of treason is death, but our great people has had blood enough. Oh, yes, mourning sadness and sorrow [illegible] words to every mother in the land; we want no more of it, and what will we do? We will make you a present of your lives. We will not even hang Jeff Davis to a sour apple tree; we will not even hang Beauregard or Forrest. We will forgive you all that; we will make you a present—a free gift, of your lives. There is one thing we will not do for you. You have gone out of the Union as the Chicago Platform says, and when we restore this Union we will do this: To the common soldier and the common citizen of the South, who warred against us, we say all you have to do is to hold up your right arm and swear allegiance to the old flag and we will give you free pardon. You may come back and sit in Congress alongside of the man whose son you murdered. We forgive you all; we say to every one, rank and file, and every one of the common people, we give free pardon to you, but we say to those rebel generals who violated their oaths, we present you with your lives but you shall not again hold office under the Government of the United States until you show that you repent of your sins and will do deeds worthy of repentance. You must come back repentant before you ask to be restored to citizenship. We say to every cabinet officer, to old Jeff. Davis, to old Robert E. Lee, we will not banish you, but we will not give you the privilege of leading your "poor white trash" astray again. [Cheers.] That is all Congress has done.

You go into a Democratic meeting and you will hear some one get up and say "Why look at it; this Black Republican party is in favor of negro suffrage. It wants to put the Southern white men under the heel of the Southern black man." [Voice, "They ought to be there."] The chivalry of the South are going to be put under the control of the degraded, cowardly negro." [Laughter.]

Is that so? Let us look at it a moment. I know there are some intelligent Democrats here. I would ask them; I would ask you, how many Southern white people there are in what is called the old Confederacy? There are eight millions I think—eight millions of Southern whites in round numbers. There are four millions of down-trodden ignorant, degraded negroes. At the beginning of the war one of the Southern Generals said one Southern soldier could chase ten Northern ones. [A voice, "They didn't do it though."] After the war had progressed a while they said, one Southern soldier can chase five Northern men. But now listen to the cry of distress; witness the bravery of these eight millions of white men of the South that are afraid of four millions of poor, miserable negroes, and they want the Democratic party of the North to save them from the four millions of "niggers." [Cheers.] Now we did not give the negro a vote. What did we do? Here is what we did. Take up the thirteenth constitutional amendment. What does it say? Here is what it says. It does not give the negro a vote no more than it gives your children a vote, or a man in Ireland a vote. Here it is:

"Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States, according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed."

But listen to this, here is what the Southern brethren don't like: "But whenever the right to vote at any election for the election of President and Vice President, or for United States Representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in that State."

What does that mean? It just means this: Before the war a man who had five hundred negroes, as many a Southern gentleman had, when the Assessor went around he was marked down as representing more than the Northern man. When the Assessor went around here he put down your fellow citizen, Mr. Phelps, one. When he went to the Southern gentleman with his five hundred slaves he had him down as three hundred and one. So one Southern slaveholder with five hundred slaves was as good as three hundred and one white, honest, toiling men of the North. Now we just say this: If you don't allow this black man to vote for himself, so help us God, you shall not let them vote for the late slaveholders. [Prolonged cheers.] If you will not let men vote for liberty, for right, for justice, you shall not represent them in the interests of slavery, of injustice, of wrong, or of oppression. [Renewed cheers.] That is the question. It is narrowed down to the sentence—whether loyalty shall cast its own ballot, or whether traitors shall cast the ballot of loyalty in favor of treason?

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

But they say the Republican party is in favor of negro suffrage; but it is not true. I will tell you who is in favor of negro suffrage—Horatio Seymour. [Laughter.] I can point you to places where they have Democratic clubs, and Democratic out-door meetings, and hold barbecues where the white Southern gentleman in his broadcloth sits down and eats beef along side of Sambo for his vote. I saw in a Pittsburgh paper the other day an account of a very strange occurrence. A barbecue was prepared for and a day fixed for holding it, in Mississippi, a short time since. They killed two oxen, but some one circulated the report that the whites were poisoning the beef. The negroes would not attend, and so they adjourned two weeks, and then put this remarkable advertisement in a paper:

"To our colored fellow citizens," [A voice, "brethren,"] "our colored brethren," you correct me; "a false and injurious rumor has been published that we intended to poison you. Do not believe this; come and choose your own tables, and if that don't suit you change plates about with us and we will eat with you." [Loud laughter.]

How is it to-day in the State of New York? Why the Democratic party made the constitution of the State of New York, and what is in that constitution? Why every colored man who owns two hundred and fifty dollars' worth of property has the same right to vote that Horatio Seymour has, and that constitution received the sanction and approval of Horatio Seymour. When these men talk to you about negro suffrage, tell them to clean down Horatio a little before they talk so much. [Laughter.] We had a very respectable colored man in our city named John Vashon. He had a son who studied law and was admitted to the bar; he went to Utica, N. Y., and there you find him practising law, cheek by jowl, with Horatio Seymour. The Democracy even talked about nominating Salmon P. Chase, and taking strong grounds in favor of negro suffrage; but we say if the negro cannot cast a vote for himself his master shall not cast his vote against loyalty and in favor of treason. Is that right or is that wrong? [Voices, right, and cheers.]

THE SUBJECT OF TAXATION.

A word about taxation. The Democracy tells you everything you have—even your bodies and souls are taxed. [A voice: Every cup of coffee.] Yes, every cup of tea and coffee, and what is worse for the Democratic party, every gallon of whisky. [Laughter.] That is what they say in our town, "worse and more of it." [Renewed laughter.] They talk about this subject and say the Democrats will relieve you of taxation. We will help you out of this great cloud of debt their Southern brethren have brought over you. How do they propose to do it? A word about this debt. How was it created? When these Southern brethren of ours rebelled we had to pay your sons to go to war. We paid them a bare pittance. Only thirteen dollars a month for setting up God's image to be shot at by traitors. John Floyd, Buchanan's Secretary of War, had stolen all your implements of war, and sent them South to your Southern brethren. He stole your navy. What next? Howell Cobb, Secretary of the Treasury, stole all your money—stole your mint at New Orleans and took all the money there. We had to go into foreign markets and buy your soldiers arms. We had not the ready money because the rebels had stolen it, and what did we do? We gave our bonds. Your boys from Armstrong and our ten thousand from Allegheny county went down to Virginia, and they had to be paid. We went to the money market and said let us have money, here are our bonds. What did the rich monied men say? Who is your indorser? who will indorse your bonds? We answered we have no indorser. A part of our children are fighting us; Great Britain is against us, and we have no indorser. The question was then, what would we give as security? In reply the people pledged the lives of their brave boys on the battlefield; they pledged the lives of your soldiers; they pledged the life of the nation; they pledged the sacred honor of the nation. If you gave money to them those would pay it back again, and they took your word without an indorser. [Loud cheers.]

The loyal Democrats are all going to vote for General Grant. Some of them may not tell it publicly, but they are going to do it. The monied men said we will give you money. There are some Democratic orators who are always talking about money. I presume I need not go out of Armstrong county to find them. They will talk about interest accumulating some eight or nine per cent. I suppose you have some rich old Democrats in this town. If you have, you will find that they generally require an indorser. Suppose that you should go to one of them and say you are engaged in a law suit; your farm is in peril and you want the means to carry on the law suit; and suppose they should ask you, "Who is your indorser?" and you were to reply, "my sacred honor," how quick this man would be likely to say, "Go to the Devil." [A voice, "We have them here."]

This money was lent to pay our boys, and to bring the mother home her boy all mangled, and shot, perhaps, with bullets, and now how are these Democrats going to pay this money? Why, they are going to pay it with greenbacks. Did you ever read a greenback? [The speaker here produced his pocket-book and took out a greenback, saying he was not afraid to take out his pocket-book in a Republican crowd. If it were a Democratic crowd, he would have a padlock on his pocket-book. These remarks were greeted with cheers and laughter.] "The United States promise to pay to the bearer fifty dollars." This is the language on the back of both bonds and greenbacks. These Democratic leaders propose to give for one promise to pay another promise to pay. How much richer are you by this operation? [Laughter.] Now you try it by experiment. Suppose you owe a hundred dollars, and you make ten small due bills of ten dollars each and distribute them, and you have ten creditors where you had one before. On every street corner you meet a man with a due bill, saying, "give me the ten dollars you owe me." [Laughter.] What would be the result of issuing such an immense amount of greenbacks to cover the land like autumnal leaves? Soon gold would go up, and what would be the effect upon the poor man? Who gains and who loses by sudden fluctuations in the money market? Does the poor man make anything by banks breaking and money depreciating in value? The evil results of this bear most heavily upon the man who works from early Monday morning until late Saturday evening. He goes to his employer and gets his wages, buys the necessaries of life, takes the balance home and gives it to Betsey, Jane or Mary, and says take care of that. When he goes Saturday night to buy his groceries, before taking his mony, the grocer says I must look at the quotations to-day, and he goes back, looks over the bank note reporter, and says, greenbacks have gone down fifteen per cent. since last Saturday night; you have got to stand a shave of fifteen per cent. Who makes money by that speculation? [Laughter.] It is the banker and the merchant. The men who do not work and have time every morning and evening to examine the quotations, and the poor man is the one who loses, while the rich man grows fatter and richer without toil or sweat. This talk about taxation is nothing but humbuggery.

The law says a certain tax shall be put upon the income. My tax that I pay to the government is over one thousand a year, and don't you suppose I am just as much interested in getting this tax reduced as some demagogue who is not taxed over eighteen cents per year. If it is for his interest to get clear of his eighteen cents, is it not for my interest to get clear of the one thousand dollars? If you ask me to repudiate this debt, so help me God, I will not. I will keep paying still. I want to make it as light as possible, but if you want to keep taxes down, keep your credit good. You know the poor devil who does not pay his bills regularly, always pays the highest prices, and those who pay their bill regularly get things cheap. Keep the credit of the nation good, and our debt will be as a mere spot upon the sun of financial prosperity. Gentlemen, it is a strange thing that you should be appealed to by the Democracy upon this taxation question. Look at it! What does the Democratic party say? "We mean equal taxation according to actual value." What does the Republican Congress say? They say, tax luxuries, tax whisky and tobacco. [A voice—"I am going to get a drink now."] If you do, don't drink Democratic whisky. The Republican party says, tax luxuries but not necessaries. Do not tax the poor man. There is not a single poor man in this crowd that pays a single dollar war tax. There is an income tax, but those under a thousand are not taxed. According to the Democratic theory the poor orphan boy who owns five hundred dollars' worth of property is to be taxed in the same proportion as the "big bellied" bondholder of New York.

Gentlemen, I expect to speak again to-night, and may refer to this subject again. I may say a few words at the Court House, or here, just as our Democratic friends desire. [Laughter and cheers.] If you want to have peace, end all these turmoils and troubles, and if you wish to feel sure that you have a government, elect the man for President whom the people know and the people feel sure will secure obedience to the law and command peace through the whole nation.

THE QUESTION OF STATESMANSHIP.

Can I better illustrate this than by a single day's work of the two candidates? I beg your attention to it patiently for three minutes. Seymour, they say, is a statesman. They say so, and wise men, men of learning and men of ability say Grant is a mere soldier. Now, I take issue with them there. I say Seymour was never in a position to test his statesmanship. I say more than that; that the only time he was ever tried he was found fatally wanting.

THREE HISTORIC POINTS.

There are three points of great historic interest. Those three points which I shall mention to you were Vicksburg, Gettysburg and New York.

On the 4th day of July, 1863, the little, quiet man of destiny was down in the hot sun of Vicksburg. There he had been fighting the rebels of Pemberton for months. There he had been banging away. Pemberton was in Vicksburg, and Grant never took his eye off it once. On the 4th day of July Pemberton got tired of it, and he was sitting at one end of a log, tall, straight, soldierly looking—a Pennsylvania Democrat; Pemberton was a Philadelphia Democrat before he went South. There was the tall man in gray at one end of the log. At the other end was the little, quiet, gray-eyed man of destiny, Ulysses S. Grant, quietly puffing away at his cigar. Pemberton says, upon what terms can I surrender Vicksburg? Taking the cigar from his mouth, the little man says, "unconditional surrender." Pemberton drew himself up and says, "General Grant I am not reduced to such straits as to expect such ungenerous terms. I have thirty thousand brave soldiers and can fight you long yet." Grant took another whiff, looks at him and says, "let's us fight it out then." [Loud cheers.]

Let us leave Vicksburg. There was another point of historic interest, and that was Gettysburg. There the battle surged to and fro, and at length the starry banner was far advanced. Our boys fought and bled with varying success, and the telegraph kept the country advised of the state of the battle, and the great loyal heart of Pennsylvania kept time with that battle. Every loyal man in Pennsylvania sent up prayers to heaven that we might win a glorious victory.

Where was the other point of historic interest? The city of New York. In the city of New York was a mass of patriotic (?) Democrats assembled on a platform—not a plain wooden platform like this, with pine boards. Oh no! It had fine tapestry and a velvet carpet, which was fit for a candidate of the Democratic party to tread upon. There was Horatio Seymour, standing up with his elegant side whiskers, and he was talking this wise to the Democrats present. Says he we were promised victories. We were promised that Grant would take Vicksburg. We were promised that Lee should be driven out of Pennsylvania, and, says he, the draft must be stopped, and then he took breath and said: Where are your promised victories? Where is Vicksburg? Just then and there the little gray eyed man of destiny spoke over ten thousand miles of electric telegraph this news: "Here I bring Vicksburg and thirty-three thousand rebel soldiers prisoners of war." Seymour says, where are your promised victories? Here, says Grant, thirty-three thousand rebels and the stars and bars in the dust. [Loud and prolonged cheers.] Where are your promised victories said Seymour? Here says Meade. "I hold the battle-field of Gettsburg. Lee is on the retreat. He has left his dead and wounded upon the highways. We have captured fifteen thousand prisoners. The enemy is fast fleeing and we may capture the entire rebel host."

Now take off your hats and give nine cheers for Ulysses S. Grant, the next President of the United States. [Nine cheers were then given with a will.]

THE CONCLUSION.

One word more. The Democrats say if you want a blacksmith you go to a blacksmith. If you want a mechanic, you go to a mechanic. If you want a statesman, you go to Horatio Seymour. Don't you think this party has a bad memory? What did they do four years ago? They nominated the little soldier McClellan, against the tried statesman Lincoln, and they said vote for the "bold soger." [Laughter and cheers.] Now I say to-day, that the world's history bears no prouder name, than that of Ulysses S. Grant. With Grant as President, the grand and mighty old ship of State, will be once more righted and our flag will wave triumphant. No nation will dare attack us with Grant President. Forrest will never "toot" his horn. The rebel Lee, will write no more letters and old Rosencrans may go to Mexico.

At the close of Mr. Marshall's speech, three rousing cheers were given for the speaker.

Mr. Marshall spoke for about an hour and a quarter, and at the close of his speech the meeting adjourned until half-past seven o'clock in the evening.

THE EVENING MEETING.

At the evening meeting a lengthy and able speech was made by Hon. George V. Lawrence, who discussed the issues of the campaign in an able manner.

He was followed by Mr. Marshall, who handled without gloves Ex-Governor Johnston, the Democratic orator of a small meeting about a square away. Pope, the campaign singer, was present and his patriotic songs were received with the greatest enthusiasm.

The meeting adjourned at a late hour.

CAMPAIGN SONG.

THE RISING TIDE.—Air, Lord Lovell.

Have you heard the good news from Vermont, Vermont?
Have you heard the good news from Vermont?
Oh! the Green Mountain boys have made a great noise,
And caused the whole nation to join in the chant,
And caused the whole nation to chant.

Ex-Governor Seymour, who dreads great alarms,
Lest his brain should reel under the shock,
Can scarce rein his steed, so nerveless his arms
Are made by the mountaineers's talk, talk, talk.
Has him hit with a terrible knock.

"Good Heavens!" he cries, as he holds hard his steed,
"I—I feel as though seized with a chill;
This cannot indeed be the aid that I need,
Much more of it will make me quite ill, ill, ill,
And give me full more than my ill."

"Ten thousand votes cannot, I will not believe,
Be changed in so short a campaign;
Is there any one here who can give me relief
From this exquisite pain, which has seized me again,
And renders my progress quite lame?

"I fear 'twould have been better had Hendricks been here,
Or Pendleton entered the race;
In truth I've no doubt, the thing is so queer,
It might have fared better with Hancock or Chase,
It might have fared better with Chase.

"Once out of this fix, I have made up my mind,
Never more to depend on "my friends;"
I will wholly resign, but never "decline,"
Or aim at vile ends, since nothing more tends,
To prevent one from making amends.

"This is all bro't about by that fellow Blair,
Whose steed takes a mile at a stride;
For the best bit and spurs that steed yet bare
Can never save us from the 'whelming tide,'
Can never save us from the tide!

ABIJAH MANN, Jr., in his day one of the most famous of New York politicians of the Silas Wright school, is dead. He was long in public life as a Democrat, but left the party with Preston King and others. In 1855 the Republicans of New York held their first nominating convention, over which Gov. Fenton presided. Preston King was nominated for Secretary of State and Mr. Mann for Attorney General. The Know Nothings, however, carried the State. In 1857 Mr. Mann was nominated by the Republicans for the Senate from the IId District, but was defeated by Samuel Sloan. This was his last appearance before the public. But he took a lively interest in political matters, generally acting with the Republicans, but retaining his early attachment for the distinctive financial views of the Barnburners. He was greatly dissatisfied with the slackness of Mr. Lincoln's administration in dealing with the rebels; and was more than suspected of having voted for Mr. Seymour in 1862. But the ensuing winter disabused him thoroughly. Meeting the Governor in the Controller's office, he fixed his eye on him with a peculiar glance, and said: "Governor Seymour, I hear that you have sinned away your day of grace; and I believe it. You had the brightest of opportunities, but you have thrown them away, I believe, forever. You might have been President; but you never will be."

GOOD HAMS.—After hams have been smoked take them down, and thoroughly rub the flesh part with molasses, then immediately apply ground or powdered pepper, by sprinkling on as much as will stick to the molasses, when they must be bung up again to dry. Hams treated in this manner will keep perfectly sweet for two or three years. This must be done before the fly deposits its eggs, for after that is done nothing will stop their ravages. No soaking is necessary.

GET A GOOD SAW.

And Your Mill will do Good Work

Our Saws are Oil Tempered, Patent Ground, made to Run well.

If You will find each Saw of one Temper and Soft Spots in the same Saw.

We accomplish this by our Patent Tempering Process, and you can not get this from any other Saw Maker, as we own the Patents for the United States.

We do not claim to make a cheaper Saw than any one else, but one that will run at the word go, and will give no trouble, and will keep round longer, besides being uniform with Temper, it will not wear on one side faster than the other.

We invite correspondence, or an interview with the practical man of your firm.

"CONSIDERABLE MERIT."

[From O. O. Thwing, M. D., New Philadelphia, O.]

NEW PHILADELPHIA, OHIO,
December 21, 1864.

MR. CLARK: I am acquainted with several persons who have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and from their testimony I am convinced that the medicine possesses considerable merit. I should be glad to recommend it to my patients who may need such a medicine, and also to use, when occasion may require, in my own practice; but our code of ethics, to which I freely subscribed, disallows me to use a medicine the ingredients of which I am unacquainted with. Most manufacturers of proprietary medicines do not hesitate to furnish their formulas to physicians, and if you are one of those, please send me your formula, and it is quite likely that it will lead to the sale of a few bottles, to say the least. I would suggest that it would be advisable to make depositories of the medicine in more places than you have in this State. There are many flourishing towns, where your medicine cannot yet be found, and where, I have no doubt, from what I know of the medicine, they would have a large sale. If you do not wish to have your complete formula known, please state the ingredients composing it.

O. O. THWING, M. D.

"VALUABLE THING."

[From James M. Clark, Baldwinsville, N. Y.]

GENTS: Allow me to say that, although, as a general thing, I have a pretty poor opinion of patent medicine, still I am disposed to regard your "Coe's Dyspepsia Remedy" as a valuable thing. From boyhood I have been troubled with the most terrible turns of sick headache that ever fell to the lot of suffering humanity, and, although I have swallowed almost every known specific for this disease, none has ever seemed to permanently benefit me but this "Coe's Dyspepsia Cure." I have not yet taken quite a bottle, and since I have commenced its use I have not had even a symptom of the headache. This is two months since. Previous to that I usually had it at least once a week, sometimes twice.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CLARK.

"THE BEST ARTICLE."

[From T. J. Rand, Muskegon, Mich.]

MUSKEGON, MICH., May 27, 1867.

Messrs. C. G. CLARK & CO.:

Having used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, I can recommend it to all who are troubled with that complaint. It cured me after having suffered for ten years, and tried many other remedies without receiving any relief. I believe it to be the best article before the people for the cure of Dyspepsia.

Yours, &c.,

T. J. RAND,
Banker, Muskegon, Mich.

"A PERFECT CURE."

[From J. H. Moulton, Battle Creek, Mich.]

BATTLE CREEK, May 5, 1868.

Messrs. ANDREWS & GRANDINE, Druggists:

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that having used it for Indigestion, I can certify that in my case it has proved itself a perfect cure.

I most cheerfully and earnestly recommend it to every one who has suffered from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease. Yours truly

JOHN F. MOULTON.

"INSTANT RELIEF."

[From J. W. Niel, M. D., Delaware, Ohio.]

Messrs. CONNELL & CO., Druggists:

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that, for a young man, I am an old Dyspeptic, and have tried almost everything in the line of prescriptions and formulas, from physicians and books, and never found anything to equal Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose I took of the Cure, I felt almost instant relief, and went about my business in a happier mood than I had for years before. After finishing one bottle, I arrived at the happy conclusion that I was cured, and had it not been for my own imprudence in eating, I doubt whether the disease would ever have returned. I most cheerfully and earnestly recommend it to every one who has suffered from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease.

Yours, truly,

J. W. NIEL, M. D.

"VERY MODEST."

[From H. M. T. Smith, Dunkirk, N. Y.]

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 1, 1868.

GENTS—I inclose your circular. I know of two parties—wives of prominent citizens in this place—who have been greatly benefitted, if not cured, by the use of your Dyspeptic Cure, but they will not consent to the public use of their names. And thus the matter rests, with a steadily increasing sale.

Yours, respectfully,

H. M. T. SMITH.

"REPUTATION GAINING."

[From Rev. Allen Crowell, Brookville, Pa.]

LUTHERSBURG, PA., May 2, 1867.

Mr. JOSEPH FLEMING:

SIR—"Coe's Dyspepsia Cure" is gaining a reputation amongst our people. The medicine already used is having the desired effect. A friend wishes me to get a bottle for him, for which I send you $1. Send to my address, as soon as possible.

Yours, &c.,

The Celebrated Walter Grape.

After twenty-five years experience with the present tender, and late varieties we know the Walter, now first offered, will restore confidence in Grape raising. It never rots. Its abundant sugar raising it in-doors or on the vine; it is a great grower and bearer, and now contains 146 clusters of bloom; is very compact in cluster at the East, which is in advantage in marketing. We have not known the foliage to mildew. It succeeds in dry and very wet soil. Is a seedling of the Delaware, crossed with the Diana, and better than either. Ripens before the Hartford, therefore, the earliest, hardiest and best variety. No. 1, one year, $5 each, in advance. Orders filled in rotation, while supply lasts. No charge for packing. Send stamp for beautiful cut and opinions of many vineyards.
